In other words, he knew what to do and when to do it, but ould not get his racquet working right nor the ball to obey his wishes.

Throckmorton's tennis was good. There With Howard Brokaw's Help is no doubt about that. He showed the kind of game that is bound to carry him up to a place before long among the select circle of the first ten. He was quick to see an opportunity and quicker to take advantage of it. His fighting spirit is best demonstrated by the fact that after trailing at 2 games to 3 in the opening set the schoolboy champion started with a rush on his own service and ran out the set by taking the next four games in a row. In the second set the players were even up to 2 all, when he and Howard Brokaw of Piping asch winning on service. A run of three Book wen the annual best hall handi-
